What a blast we had with our friends from Hawai’i Island who came out to GET CAUGHT READING with us. In Waimea, we spent time together on a scavenger hunt at Thelma Parker Memorial Public Library, scouring through books for clues. GET CAUGHT READING is our statewide multimedia initiative to share the love of reading with our community.

Still Connected – and We’re So Grateful!

We feel fortunate that ties to this TV station run strong, and that former staffers and the families of employees who’ve passed away come by and visit.

It was a delight to get together with relatives of two men who helped build the quality of public television in Hawai‘i. The visit was organized by Dr. Mary Bitterman, who headed the TV station when the late engineer Akio Sakata and the late photographer Joe Konno were in their heyday. Mary went on to become a national PBS leader. These former staffers’ talent, character and spirit remain a powerful inspiration here.

Akio, a thoughtful and clever native of Hakalau, Hawai‘i Island, pulled off engineering firsts in establishing our extensive broadcast system. He died too young, at age 53. Joe was not only a superb still photographer, he was one of Hawai‘i’s first television cameramen.

The theme of human connection ran alongside the subject of digital media strategies at the PBS Annual Meeting last month in Nashville, Tennessee. Which felt just right. What we strive to do in public media is combine the power of touch and the reach of tech to serve our home states.

Why meet in Nashville? Because PBS representatives from around the country need to meet somewhere — and Music City was a great setting for renowned filmmaker Ken Burns to share his newest epic, Country Music. He spoke in a hotel ballroom two blocks from a boulevard of windows-thrown-open, live-music honky tonks. The eight-part, 16-hour film premieres on PBS stations nationally on Sunday, September 15.

At the conference, Burns said the film isn’t only for country music fans. At the heart of this American art form are honesty, vulnerability and real life. It’s about the joy of love and family, the hurt of betrayal, loneliness, regret, resilience, toil, faith, independence and the lure of the open road.

I had the privilege of taking part in a discussion on stage with heavy hitters: (right to left) PBS NewsHour anchor and managing editor Judy Woodruff; NY Times Op-Ed columnist/PBS NewsHour commentator/author David Brooks and (far left) PBS Arts Adviser Jane Chu. We looked at how the arts reach deep within people and we considered Brooks’ proposition that the neighborhood, not the individual, is the essential unit of social change. And we talked about using local knowledge to determine the best ways to convene and authentically engage communities of diverse voices.

Just as there’s no quick fix for the broken heart in a country song, there’s no manual for success in the rapidly changing media industry. The spinning evolution of tech choices, viewer options and fragmented audiences requires media makers to be agile and relentlessly purposeful — and that still doesn’t assure success.

Here’s an industry expectation that’s a safe bet: In three years or less there will be as many digital screens as live TV screens being used to view programming. PBS KIDS viewing is already there. Digital screens dominate in front of young children, who also use them to play PBS educational video games.

Back from Nashville, our local team knows that we need more than quality programming going for PBS Hawai‘i; we need to offer easy availability. You as a viewer want to be able to watch what you want — when and where you want it. Our Passport streaming service and our website on-demand programs are a start.

If PBS Hawai‘i’s digital strategy goals were a country music song, the title would be “I’ll Go Anywhere With You.”

Aloha nui,
July 20, 1969 was a momentous day, a day whose events some would refer to later as the “greatest experience of their lifetime.” Parents around the world invited their children to join them around the television, “Come and watch this,” they said.
Families gathered around their television sets in awe, listening intently as messages came crackling over the airwaves. From Apollo 11, two American astronauts, Neil Armstrong and Edwin “Buzz” Aldrin, accomplished what no other humans had done — they stepped foot on the moon. Armstrong's words, “That's one small step for [a] man, one giant leap for mankind,” echoed around the world.

As Americans and the world shared their experiences, for those living in Hawai'i the event continued as astronauts Armstrong, Aldrin and Michael Collins made their first landfall on O'ahu after their capsule splashed down in the Pacific Ocean. Their quarantine unit arrived at Pearl Harbor aboard the recovery vessel, the aircraft carrier USS Hornet, on their way back to Houston.

In recognition of the 50th anniversary of the Apollo 11 moon landing, AMERICAN EXPERIENCE and PBS Hawai‘i are premiering Chasing the Moon, a three-part, six-hour documentary series that brings the awe, excitement and unforgettable experience to life for both those who lived through it and for the generations who have come after.

From the space race's earliest beginnings to the monumental achievement of the first lunar landing in 1969 and beyond, this series recasts this period as a fascinating time of scientific innovation, political calculation, media spectacle, visionary impulses and personal drama. Utilizing previously overlooked and lost archival material — much of which has never before been seen by the public — the film features a diverse cast of characters who played key roles in these historic events.

Among those are astronauts Aldrin, Frank Borman and Bill Anders; Sergei Khrushchev, son of the former Soviet premier and a leading Soviet rocket engineer; Poppy Northcutt, a 25-year old “mathematics whiz” who gained worldwide attention as the first woman to serve in the all-male bastion of NASA's Mission Control; and Ed Dwight, the Air Force pilot selected by the Kennedy administration to train as America's first black astronaut.

“When we think of that breathtaking moment of the 1969 moon landing, we forget what a turbulent time that was,” said Mark Samels, AMERICAN EXPERIENCE executive producer. “The country was dealing with huge problems — Vietnam, poverty, race riots — and there was a lot of skepticism about the space program. Chasing the Moon explores the unbelievably complex challenges that NASA was able to overcome. It was a century-defining achievement, and our film tells a familiar story in an entirely new way.”

Fireworks over the U.S. Capitol
PBS Hawai‘i brings viewers the universe with SUMMER OF SPACE, a suite of new science and history programs commemorating America’s journey into space.

ANTIQUES ROADSHOW
Out of This World
Monday, July 8 at 8:00 pm

Check out space-themed treasures, including NASA Space Program autographed photos, a 1737 celestial and terrestrial atlas, plus a Star Trek script treatment.

NOVA
Back to the Moon
Wednesday, July 10 at 8:00 pm

Fifty years after humans first set foot on the moon, new scientific discoveries are fueling excitement for a return to the lunar surface – this time, perhaps, to stay. Join the scientists and engineers working to make life on the moon a reality.

8 DAYS: TO THE MOON AND BACK
Wednesday, July 17 at 9:00 pm

Join Apollo 11 on its historic journey in this film that seamlessly blends mission audio featuring conversations among Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and Michael Collins with new footage from the NASA archive and stunning CGI to recreate the first moon landing.

ANCIENT SKIES
Wednesdays, July 24 - August 7 at 8:00 pm

Discover how centuries of knowledge, experimentation and engineering helped our ancestors understand the mysteries of space. Expert contributors decode astronomical myths and uncover the science behind their origins.

NOVA
The Planets
Wednesdays, July 24 - August 14 at 9:00 pm

In this five-part series, NOVA explores the awesome beauty of the planets, including Saturn’s 175,000-mile-wide rings, Mars’ ancient waterfalls four times the size of any found on Earth, and Neptune’s winds – 12 times stronger than any hurricane felt on our planet. Using unique special effects and extraordinary footage captured by orbiters, landers and rovers, viewers get an up-close look at these faraway worlds.

2:30 POV SHORTS Earthrise

MOLLY OF DENALI is a new weekday kids series that follows feisty and resourceful 10-year-old Molly Mabray, an Alaska Native girl, who takes viewers ages 4 to 8 along with her on adventures. Molly helps her mom and dad run the Denali Trading Post, a general store and transport hub in the fictional village of Qyah, Alaska. With an emphasis on family and intergenerational relationships, the series models Alaska Native values, such as respecting others, sharing what you have and honoring your elders, and showcases contemporary aspects of rural life. MOLLY OF DENALI is grounded in kid-relatable issues such as meeting new people, getting from one place to another, mastering a skill and how technology aids in communication.

Amos Kotomori – Tuesday, July 23, 7:30 pm

Amos Kotomori designs fashion, jewelry, building interiors and more – you can even see his creativity at work in the set design for Long Story Short here at PBS Hawai‘i. From working in advertising, with modeling agencies and with top fashion designers, his career successes have taken him all over the world. However, his most inspirational attribute is how he has dealt with life’s challenges. This Honolulu and Bali-based designer shares how his life values and no-fear attitude have helped guide him through obstacles in life with grace and humility.

Karen Watanabe’s Lasting Gift to Hawai‘i

Guess who took us over the top, surpassing our building goal, when your local PBS station needed a new home? Someone we never had the pleasure of meeting. But this longtime public school teacher from Waipahu knew our TV programs.

In her small condo, the retired math teacher studied and played the stock market, socking away her gains.

And when Karen Sueko Watanabe passed away, she left PBS Hawai‘i almost $700,000.

We honor Ms. Watanabe’s memory every day in the facility she helped build, featuring her portrait in a mural created by artist Kamea Hadar.

Is PBS Hawai‘i already in your will, trust or other estate plans? If you are saying, “Yes!” then we want to thank you. Please let us know about your plans because it helps us plan for the future.

Don’t have a will? You’re not alone! Now is a great time to start planning, and to consider including a bequest to PBS Hawai‘i in your estate plans. Please contact Christina Sumida, Vice President of Advancement, at 462.5045 or csumida@pbshawaii.org for suggested “bequest language” and our tax ID for you to share with your attorney.
