PROGRAM GUIDE | VOLUME 43 | ISSUE 5 | MAY 2024

CEO MESSAGE

Denialism is the practice of denying the existence, truth or validity of something, despite proof of strong evidence that is real, true or valid.

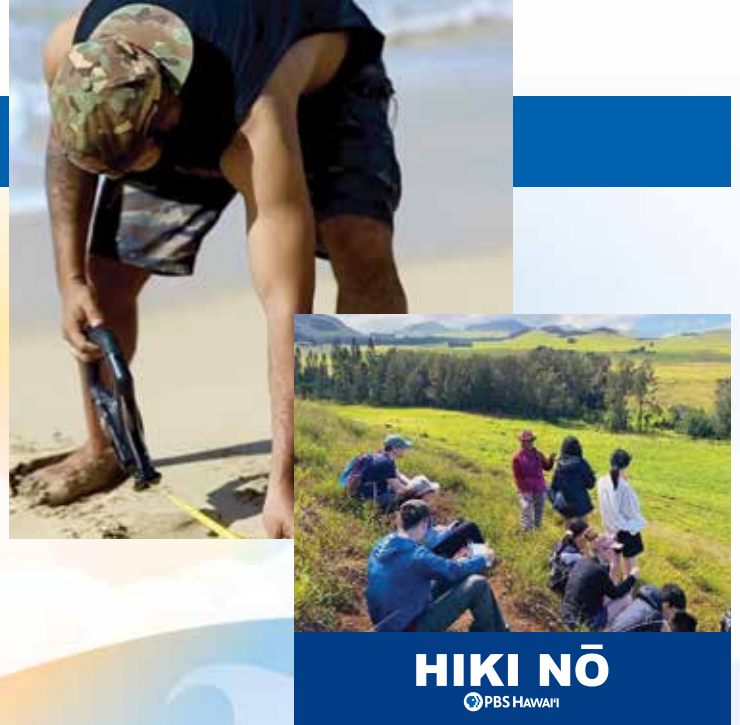

That could apply to nearly 15% of Americans who, according to a recent University of Michigan study, do not believe that climate change is real. Alternatively, if you look at it from a completely different perspective, it could apply to nearly 85% of Americans who do believe climate change is real.

Here at home, 70% of Hawai'i residents say they are worried about climate change, while 30% say they are not. Regardless of where you stand on climate change, there are compelling reasons for everyone to care about the topic.

Hawai'i is at the forefront of global warming discussions and studies. In 2018, Gov. David Ige signed three bills into law in an effort to reduce carbon emissions, including one that set a goal of making Hawai'i a zero-emissions clean economy by 2045. Some called it overly ambitious, unnecessary and unrealistic, while others saw it as a commitment to urgently addressing a global crisis and transitioning to clean energy.

At PBS Hawai'i, we understand that one of the important roles we serve in the community is to provide a safe space for productive and balanced discussions and storytelling. This includes topics with intensely different views like climate change. So we are launching an initiative through the rest of this year called Mauka to Makai: Our Kuleana – from the mountains to the sea, it is our responsibility.

It starts with Hawai'i's youth. As stewards of the 'āina, keiki have become vocal advocates for environmental preservation and action. HIKI NŌ on PBS Hawai'i recognizes the importance of amplifying student voices.

In an effort to empower youth and foster dialogue, HIKI NŌ's 2024 Spring Challenge focuses on climate change. The storytelling competition for student journalists from elementary, middle and high schools statewide provides a platform to share perspectives and experiences about the actions and solutions happening in communities across the islands.

The competition culminates with a special broadcast on May 21, but our commitment to addressing the topic does not end there. Join us through 2024, as we share stories of how individuals and groups are working together to create solutions to challenges – from preserving forest reserves and saving native plant and animal species from extinction, to revitalizing our coral reefs, fishponds and agricultural wetlands. Respectfully talking about the issues that affect lives is everyone's kuleana, especially when we do not agree.

When someone asks what state we live in, we should proudly answer Hawai'i. Not denial.

With gratitude and aloha,

Ron Mizutani
and the PBS Hawai'i 'ohana

Home is Here

WEDNESDAY, MAY 29
AT 7:30 PM

This month on Home is Here, we have three stories about finding connection and discovering identity.

"Everybody, at some point in their life, wants to know where did they come from," shares librarian Linda Sueyoshi of the Hawai'i State Library. Librarians like Linda aid individuals in discovering their ancestry, offering resources to explore familial histories. Kylie Flood of the Nānākuli Public Library in West O'ahu finds joy in assisting people in learning about their ancestors, emphasizing the resilience and triumphs uncovered through genealogical research.

Passionate genealogists in their own right, Kevin Faller and brothers Kevin and Chester Sebastian connected over their love for retro apparel and sports memorabilia. After combining their collections, they founded the Old Queen Street Stadium, a repository of rare vintage Hawai'i items. Their ever-expanding collection led to the creation of the Hawai'i Sports Museum, a showcase for unique and significant sports artifacts that celebrate local legends and their stories.

Aaron "Woes" Martin discovered graffiti and hip-hop at a young age while attending Kalihi Kai Elementary School in Honolulu. His love for the culture gave him an outlet for all of his creative urges. Woes has overcome serious obstacles and injuries to carve out success in the art world while maintaining a profound connection to his roots and community.

PBS HAWAII

PRESENTS

Ottomaticake

THURSDAY, MAY 30
AT 8:30 PM

Like the cheesecakes he sells out of his Kaimukī shop in East Honolulu, Otto Cake, Scott “Otto” McDonough, is a blend of unexpected flavors and multi-layered. The independent businessman and subject of the documentary Ottomaticake has been making desserts by hand, without the use of any machinery, for the past 25 years.

When Otto is not selling cheesecake by the slice out of his vintage wooden cash register, he moonlights as a punk rocker, a director and lead actor in self-produced plays. He is also a champion roller skater.

Otto attacks all of his passions and obstacles with a DIY attitude and does not let his personal limitations like not knowing how to play the electric bass guitar or not knowing how to read well slow him down.

“I guess in (terms) of the glass half full or half empty, I’m glad there is something in there,” says Otto.

Ottomaticake is a candid glimpse into the life of the completely original and resilient entrepreneur/artist/baker/punk rocker/roller skater/dramaturge.

“Everything that’s happened is because of the cake in my life,” he says. “I can’t believe all the people I’ve met. All these bands I’ve been in, everything in my life, the cake did it.”

NATIONAL PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

LUCKY CHOW

Saturdays, May 4-June 8, 7:00 pm

The travel and food series returns for another season of impactful stories of Asian food and the culture's firm roots in American soil. Host Danielle Chang travels to Texas, Wisconsin and New York for barbecue, a crawfish boil, a mushroom forage, an oyster harvest and a visit to a ginseng farm.

THROUGH OUR EYES Reclaim

Saturday, May 4, 8:00 pm

Hawaiian cultural practices are a source of pride and joy for Honor and his older brother, Hanalei. Follow their journey as they connect to their Hawaiian roots and preserve their heritage through language and the practice of hula, leading to Hanalei competing with his hālau in the Merrie Monarch Festival.

MARYLAND ON MASTERPIECE

Sundays, May 5-19, 8:00 pm

Two sisters, Rosaline and Becca, find themselves thrown together by the sudden death of their mother when they come to find out that she was living an entirely secret life. As the sisters cope with their loss, they meet their mother's quirky friend, who seems to know a lot more about their mother than they do.

NATURE Grizzly 399: Queen of the Tetons

Wednesday, May 8, 8:00 pm

Get a close-up view of the most famous bear in Wyoming's Grand Teton National Park as she attempts to raise four cubs. In making increasingly unexpected and consequential choices to protect her family, Grizzly 399 stands as a symbol of the clash between humans and the wild.

TO BE TAKEI

Saturday, May 11, 8:00 pm

This documentary traces the life of TV legend, marriage equality advocate and spokesperson for racial justice George Takei. Best known for his groundbreaking role of Mr. Sulu on the original Star Trek series, Takei is one of the most visible Asian American actors of all time, inspiring generations of fans.

PHOTOGRAPHIC JUSTICE: THE CORKY LEE STORY

Monday, May 13, 9:00 pm

Using his camera as a "weapon against injustice," Chinese American photographer Corky Lee's art is his activism. His unforgettable images of Asian American life empowered generations. This film's intimate portrait reveals the triumphs and tragedies of the man behind the lens.

A LONG MARCH

Sunday, May 19, 7:00 pm

Thousands of Filipino and Filipino-American soldiers went to war to defend the United States and the Philippines during World War II. Watch as three Filipino-American veterans trace their paths from war to erasure by the U.S. Government, marching from an obscured history to the Federal courts, right up to the steps of Congress.

THE NATIONAL MEMORIAL DAY CONCERT 2024

Sunday, May 26, 7:00 pm

The year's concert will remember our fallen heroes and Gold Star families with the story of Vietnam Veteran and Gold Star Father Allen Hoe (pictured), who followed generations of his proud warrior family, serving as a combat medic in 1967-68. Hoe's two sons served in the U.S. Army; First Lt. Nainoa Hoe was killed in Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The PBS Hawai'i Keiki Club Created for Families Just Like Yours!

We all know that children don't just "watch" TV, they really get involved. They talk to the characters on the screen, they repeat things they hear and they act out what they see.

Programs like Daniel Tiger's Neighborhood, Wild Kratts, Sesame Street and Lyla in the Loop offer a safe place for all keiki to learn and grow, giving them a head-start on their journey to life-long learning.

If your child or grandchild watches PBS Hawai'i, you already give us two very valuable things — your child's time and your trust.

Please lend a helping hand by joining the PBS Hawai'i Keiki Club with a gift of $30 ($25 for each additional sibling) today. It's a great way to support your favorite PBS Kids programs, and you'll receive fun benefits and opportunities to meet your friends on PBS KIDS throughout the year.

Keiki Club members receive:

- Welcome pack
- Birthday gift
- On-air birthday message
- Quarterly newsletter
- Invitations to exclusive events, like our annual Trunk o' Treat (coming in October)

Make your pledge online at PBShawaii.org or call 808.462.5000.

Nā Mele: Nā Leo Pilimehana
at Halekulani's House Without A Key
Sunday, June 9 at 7:00 pm

The women of Nā Leo Pilimehana are as in sync now as they were when they started 40 years ago. In the postcard setting of Waikīkī beach, the harmonies created by Lehua Kalima, Nalani Jenkins and Angela Morales ring true to the group's name, which translates to The Voices Blending in Warmth. This super group has won more than 20 Nā Hōkū Hanohano Awards dating back to the 1980s. Enjoy an evening with Nā Leo Pilimehana at Halekulani's House Without A Key and pledge your support to PBS Hawai'i.
